Facing the chop:
Raff Baccus set up
Wood Works Wonders which helps workers
learn vital skills

By Lucy Purdy

A PLEA has gone out to improve job prospects in Tottenham as unemployment nears one in ten – twice the London average and the highest rate in the capital.

New figures show that 6,294 people in the area were claiming Jobseekers' Allowance in February – an increase of 256 from December – which means eight per cent of Tottenham's working-age population are on the dole.

And a worrying 1,305 of these are under the age of 24 – prompting fears young people are being dumped on the scrapheap before they have even had a chance to begin their careers.

Tottenham MP David Lammy warned that a "game changer" is needed to improve the gloomy outlook for Tottenham's next generation – one which is not helped by the impending 1,000 job losses at Haringey Council and the possibility that Spurs chairman Daniel Levy may decide to move the club out of the area.

Mr Lammy said: "We've hit the highest level of unemployment for decades and the council redundancies have yet to begin. This corner of north London needs a game-changer. The government needs to give those bearing the brunt of the job crisis a real chance to find work."

Raff Baccus helps run a pioneering project at The Selby Centre, in Selby Road – a community

Fears for younger people as jobless rate soars to highest rate in capital hub which is itself threatened by the cuts. Wood Works Wonders salvages wood destined for the rubbish dump and teaches unemployed people the skills to turn it into useful pieces of furniture.

Raff, 34, who grew up in Tottenham and who taught theatre before being made redundant, got involved in the project 12 months ago after being unemployed for a year. He and colleague Terry Welch landed their positions through the government's Future Jobs Fund – a scheme which injected cash into joblessness hotspots but which has now been scrapped.

Raff told the Advertiser: "Unless my contract is renewed, I'll be back to job-hunting again in a few weeks. I'm lucky to have made lots of contacts since I've been here but all organisations seem to be in a similar situation."

"When I was hunting for a job it seemed I was either over-qualified or not qualified enough for everything I went for. It was catch-22."

Terry, 24, who is also from Tottenham and who was unemployed for six months before landing the position, described Wood Works Wonders as

"a lifeline" and warned the financial situation was making scores of young people feel worthless. "In Tottenham there's not much money floating around, so I grew up knowing you had to work hard to put food on the table," he said.

"When you're unemployed it's hard to motivate yourself. Getting up in the morning gets harder and harder every day – it's demoralising."

"People assume that you don't want to work and that you're lazy. I was going nowhere before I came to the Selby Centre. It was like a lifeline, a new start."

❑ SUPERMARKET giant Asda will open its first food store in Tottenham on April 4.

The new store, in High Road, will occupy the 8,214 sq ft of space previously occupied by a Somerfield and all staff will transfer over with 13 new jobs created. The store will include a halal section, a bakery, hot chicken rotisserie and a George clothing range.

NEWSPAPERS SUPPORT
RECYCLING

By Lucy Purdy

TEENAGERS across Haringey are devastated that a counselling service used by young victims of crime, bullying and abuse will close in two weeks.

Hundreds of young people, who banded together to join the Save Haringey Youth Centres campaign in an attempt to save youth services from the latest wave of public service cuts, have reacted with anger at the news.

They received confirmation that the counselling service will cease from April 1 after submitting a Freedom Of Information request and say they were not consulted or notified that the service would go. Qualified counsellors offer both group and one-to-one counselling for people aged 11-19 and help about 150 young people a year.

The budget for Haringey's youth services has been slashed by 75 per cent by the Labour-run council following cuts imposed by central government.

Symeon Brown, spokesman for SHYS, told the Advertiser: "We are increasingly worried about the ruthlessness of this council's approach to young people. First it makes such drastic cuts and then makes them very swiftly – we think that their approach has been ruthless and ill-thought-out."

Symeon, a university graduate from Tottenham, added: "From our experience, the biggest problems facing young people in places such as Tottenham are a lack of self confidence and not having people to confide in. The counselling service helped those with serious emotional problems. These cuts will ruin young people's life chances."

Other members of the campaign group said that they believe Haringey's most vulnerable will suffer.

Matt Green said: "It is disgraceful such a pivotal service working with the borough's most vulnerable teenagers is the first to go under the banner of 'efficiency savings'. The actual saving of young people's lives has become secondary in a borough with a less than desirable safeguarding record."

Councillor Lorna Reith, cabinet member for children and young people, said: "Unfortunately, due to government cuts and cuts in grant funding, the general counselling service for young people is closing. However, counselling can be accessed through self-referral, or through a third party, from other local voluntary organisations such as Open Door. There is still provision for school and other council workers to get help for highly vulnerable young people whose needs are brought to their attention.

"We will watch this carefully."

Train death

A MAN from Finsbury Park died after being hit by a train at Manor House underground last week.

The unnamed 33-year-old was killed by a westbound Piccadilly Line train at 8.27pm on March 17. British Transport Police, who attended along with paramedics from London Ambulance Service, said the death was being treated as non-suspicious.

Council turn down offer of Olympic tickets

COUNCIL chiefs in Haringey have opted not to buy any Olympic tickets after they were offered a batch by organisers.

Haringey Council is one of a handful of local authorities in the capital whose bosses declined an offer to buy up to 100 tickets to London 2012.

A council spokesman said: "We will not be buying any 2012 tickets which have been offered via this promotion.

In the current financial climate, we don't consider it an appropriate use of the council's limited resources."

Barnet, Camden, Harrow,

Redbridge, Kingston, Bromley, Croydon and Barking and Dagenham also declined tickets.

The London Organising Committee of the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games said any tickets not taken up would join the 6.6million on sale to members of the public.

Marcela cuts it as ice champ after her jump over the pond

By Lucy Purdy

A SKATER who swapped the bright lights of New York for north London to train at Alexandra Palace's ice rink has triumphed in a national competition.

Colombian-born Marcela Rueva Gomez has been skating at the palace since December 2009 when she was visiting from New York where she was living at the time.

The 29-year-old took a series of lessons and fell in love with the sport – and so decided to relocate to Muswell Hill to pursue her dream. Marcela received a bronze medal at the British Adult Championships last month, impressing judges in the free dance category.

Marcela, who lives in Coniston Road, told the Advertiser what prompted the transatlantic move.

"Unbelievably, there is nowhere in New York where I could have pursued this hobby in quite the same way," she explained.

"Ice skating was my childhood dream and I practise as often as I can, fitting it around my job as a consultant for a charity. I think adult skating is taken a bit more seriously here than in America.

“Skating teaches you discipline and a fantastic feeling of achievement.”

"Over there, unless you can get an Olympic medal for ice skating, they are not so interested."

"I felt really happy in London and so made the decision to come back here – and it's been great!" Marcela now keeps New York hours by working in her job from home, which frees up time for her to practise at the palace.

She trains under coach Shirelle

Kyle, who has been teaching at Ally Pally for 20 years and who also trains civil servant Kate Sinnott, who scooped a bronze in the solo dance category at the same championships.

Marcela, whose family live in Valencia, Spain, now hopes to keep pushing herself and fulfil her skating dreams.

"Ice skating is not an easy sport," she said, "but every step is a new challenge and that gives you more motivation. You know that it is never good enough. It teaches you discipline and a fantastic feeling of achievement."

Zero requests submitted for royal shindigs

ROYAL wedding fever seems to be in short supply in Haringey as the Advertiser can reveal not a single application to hold a celebratory street party has been submitted to Haringey Council.

Residents now have until April 7 to apply to hold a party on their street as council chiefs opted to push back the deadline to encourage people to apply. They were hoping residents would group together to celebrate the marriage of Prince William and Kate Middleton on April 29, and suggested parties would "strengthen our communities".

Haringey's cabinet member for neighbourhoods, Nilgun Canver, said the deadline had been extended "so as not to disappoint late-comers". She added: "We've kept the cost of holding street parties low because we are aware residents may well want to celebrate the royal wedding."

"Some residents already hold annual street parties and we are happy to support events like these as they are great fun and help strengthen our communities, a factor which brings benefits for all."

Street parties in residential roads in Haringey will cost £80 and can be planned with "the minimum of red tape", according to the council.

Parties in side streets or cul de sacs involving just street residents will not need traffic regulation and council bosses only require notices in the road. Residents cannot use roads on bus routes, bus diversion routes, blue-light routes or busier roads without a traffic order.

Legend: Van Morrison

By Lucy Purdy

FOLK-ROCK legend Van Morrison is among the latest acts confirmed for a new Irish music festival in Finsbury Park this summer.

Organisers have also confirmed they are extending the festival to a second day due to demand. Newly reformed Irish rock band The Cranberries have also been announced to perform. The band, who have had worldwide sales of more than 40 million records with hits such as Linger, Zombie and Dreams, announced that this will be their only UK festival performance this year. Headliner Bob Dylan will also appear exclusively at the inaugural London Feis.

Afro Celt Sound System and former Pogues singer Shane MacGowan will appear at the festival on June 18-19 this year.

Feis is the brainchild of veteran music promoter Vince Power, the driving force behind the long-running Reading and Leeds rock festivals, the Hop Farm Music Festival in Kent who also hosted 14 popular Fleadh festivals in Finsbury Park between 1990 and 2004.

Other acts confirmed are Christy Moore with Declan Sinnott, Imelda May, The Waterboys, The Undertones, The Saw Doctors, Clannad, Horslips,

Reunited: The Cranberries

Nanci Griffith, Sharon Shannon Big Band, Frankie Gavin & De Dannan and The Fureys.

Mr Power said: "Because of the popularity of the first day and the number of bands wanting to play, we've had to extend the festival to a second day. I'm delighted to confirm Van Morrison to headline the second night and this is shaping up to be a great celebration."

Requiem for a sister gone too soon

By Lucy Purdy

THE brother of a woman who committed suicide at Wood Green underground station last year has written a requiem in her memory.

A year ago, James Drew-Edwards received a devastating phone call informing him that his younger sister Claire Bushnell had died. The 54-year-old had struggled with depression for many years and on March 19 threw herself in front of a train. She left behind three children: Matt, 25, Olly, 23, and Nicky, 20.

During his grief, James focused his energies on penning the piece of music which was performed at a Requiem Concert for Claire at St. John's, Smith Square, Westminster.

James, 58, of Huntingdon Road, East Finchley, is a tai chi teacher but also composes music and said that writing the requiem was a "cathartic process".

He told The Advertiser: "Claire took her own life in a very violent way and it was deeply shocking. I wrote the requiem for my own healing process and it helped get me through what was an extremely difficult time.

"Normally a requiem contains strong references to anger, guilt and punishment, but I added a new end section called Pro Vivis which is about the living - for her friends and family.

"It is about saying: 'you are not forgotten' but also looking to the future and the people who are left. Writing it was such great therapy and the concert went extraordinarily well."

The concert was funded by Claire's family and all proceeds will go to two charities close to her heart: mental health charity Mind and a charity called Camfed which funds education for young girls in Africa and with which Claire was involved before she died.

A total of £9,900 was collected from ticket sales and members of the family hope to raise even more money by selling a CD recorded on the night. Anyone wishing to find out more can email James at james.drewe@virgin.net

Lyrical flights of fancy steal show

Liz Nicholls and Amber (aged 2½) review Little Angel Theatre's Fabulous Flutterbys

ZOOMING in on the small tabletop in a dimmed room with three players dressed in black, it seems as though these austere times have claimed another victim – children's drama.

But from such humble beginnings, green shoots emerge and a colourful gang of bugs introduce themselves to prove that small can be beautiful.

Fabulous Flutterbys' garden gang of caterpillar heroes are manipulated – somewhat distractingly – by their larger human puppet-masters on their rough-and-tumble adventures to find an abducted friend.

The action is sometimes hard to decipher, and is at its most powerful when reduced to tableau, such as when the caterpillar buddies turn into pupae, doing nothing more than hanging, glowing pubescently in the darkness, for a few awe-struck moments. A gangly ant and twitchy spider deliver drama to tickle the young audience and the scene is cleverly set with moveable plant props. But the microstage sometimes seems dwarfed by its regular-sized actors.

What captures the crowd, however, is the use of guitar and movingly plangent lyrics. Rather than a patronising, simple tale of friends sticking together, Barb Jung's writing encompasses wider themes of home, identity and, most importantly, change. Lovingly crafted and resonant with hope, the final appearance of the flutterby adults shows that growing up is not so hard to do when it is properly explained.

● The Fabulous Flutterbys can be seen at Jacksons Lane in Archway Road, Highgate on April 9 and 10 at noon and 2pm. For reservations call the box office on 020 8341 4421.

Old-style traditional spice at modern-look Tandoori

Restaurant News

Village Tandoori Restaurant,
11 Chaseville Parade, Chaseville
Park Road, Winchmore Hill 020
8360 6980/ 020 8364 1665

THE times they are a-changin' in restaurant land.

Thanks to a certain recession, restaurants can no longer afford to be resting on their laurels but have to keep being innovative and on top of their game.

For 15 years Village Tandoori, nestling in Chaseville Park Road, was the traditional Indian restaurant attracting a loyal clientele. But last February new management took over, breathing fresh life into the institution to help it through these difficult times.

A £20,000 facelift with new, funkier frontage and a chic interior was the first obvious change, while others are now being implemented including new menus and long-term plans to expand the dining area.

"It was quite old-fashioned but now it's a much more modern-looking restaurant," said one of the partners, Tufayel Ahmed. "But we have been careful to keep the same staff and the same chef because people do like continuity as well, while we haven't changed the price structure at all."

"Good service is so important," added partner and brother-in-law Yakoub Suleman. "Diners deserve the personal touch. For our Sunday buffet we don't ask people to help themselves but we come to their tables, while we always want to know what strength curry you prefer and our chef will prepare it. The diner shouldn't be put off by a dish they quite fancy but it's marked down as being very hot. We'll just make it milder."

A case in point was one of the popular new dishes, Chennai Naga Chicken which is advertised as containing "hot spices", but was cooled considerably for this particular gannet who could then enjoy its exotic tastes for all their delicious worth.

FAMILY HOME? DRUGS DEN? TERRORIST CELL?

Terrorists live amongst us when they're planning attacks. So naturally that means they'll try to conceal their activities. But sometimes they can leave tell-tale signs. Signs that we need your help in spotting.

They may try and keep what they're doing secret by covering their windows.

If you're suspicious of a property where there's lots of activity that doesn't fit normal day to day life, please call us in confidence. Your call could save lives.

14. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
15. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
16. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
17. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. BALE SIGNS NEW DEAL

By Dominique Stafford

GARETH BALE has handed Tottenham Hotspur a big boost by signing a new four-and-a-half year contract with the club.

There has been much speculation over Bale's future following his dazzling displays in the Champions League earlier in the season, but Spurs confirmed in the wake of Saturday's 0-0 Premier League draw at home to West Ham United that the Welsh international had put pen to paper on a deal which will see him stay at White Hart Lane until 2015.

"I am enjoying my football at Tottenham," he said. "I want us to keep going forward as a team and hopefully we can achieve big things.

"We have got a great squad that is still young and we are going places. It is great to commit to the club, and hopefully we can achieve what we believe we will with this squad.

"I definitely believe we can challenge for a title very soon. That is why I have signed.

"Every year as a minimum we are aiming to qualify for the Champions League, so we are definitely going in the right direction."

Manager Harry Redknapp added: "It's great to have Gareth sign a new contract at the club.

"He is a fantastic player and the type we need to be keeping at Spurs. Gareth is now one of the top left-sided players in the world, he really is an amazing talent and can only get better."

Saturday's match saw Spurs thwarted by the woodwork on three occasions as their hopes of a top-four finish suffered a setback.

Michael Dawson hit the bar and Aaron Lennon the post prior to the interval, while Bale's late free-kick was brilliantly turned on to the bar by inspired West Ham keeper Rob Green.

"Their keeper had a great day," Redknapp said. "I loved the way we moved the ball about and loved the chances we made.

"We hit the woodwork time after time – but just couldn't get the goal we needed. That happens sometimes, that's football."

Skolars are still looking for their first league win

THE London Skolars failed to build on a bright start as they slumped to a 42-22 defeat at home to Doncaster in rugby league's Co-Operative Championship One on Sunday.

It had looked as if the Skolars could be heading for their first league win of the season when they opened up a 16-6 lead inside 15 minutes, but those hopes were dashed as Doncaster responded by scoring 36 unanswered points to ease to victory.

Luke May, Jason Hart, Gareth Honor and Austen Aggrey grabbed tries for the hosts, with Neil Thorman kicking three goals. Honor's try was his 30th for the club and moved him up in to second place in the Skolars' try scoring list in the professional era.

Scott Spaven (two), Chris Green (two), Mick Butterfield, Ryan Steen and Stu Sanderson scored tries for the visitors.

However, the match ended on a sour note as Ade Adebisi and Doncaster's Dean Colton were sent off for fighting.

Meanwhile, the Skolars missed out on a lucrative tie against one of the Super League giants in the Carnegie Challenge Cup but still face a tough task if they are to progress beyond the fourth round of the competition after being drawn at home to Championship outfit Widnes Vikings.

The two sides have already met in the Northern Rail Cup this season, with Widnes securing a resounding 62-18 victory. The match will be played on the weekend of May 7-8.
